RICHER POOR.

If I could cou her golden hair,
Or pawn her bright lips' rubies rare,
I'd like to take her to the play
And after that at some cafe
A supper served in style.

If I'd the diamond that lies
Embedded in her laughing eyes,
I'd have it set with care;
And then I'd place the yellow band
Upon her dainty little hand
And leave it shining there.

If I were rich—but thou, you know,
Perhaps she wouldn't love me so,
I'm not so very sure;
But if this wealth should mean to part,
To lose the love of her dear heart,
I think I'm richer poor.

THE TEACHER TAUGHT.

Why Sir Edwin Arnold Ceased to Use the Rod on His Pupils.

Sir Edwin Arnold, in his autobiography, tells the unique story of how, as master of the Birmingham Grammar school, he was caused by one of the boys, the class was engaged on Cicero. Some disorder occurred near the master's chair, and seizing the cane he "gave a nasty cut upon the too tempting back" of one youth who seemed to be the offender. "If you please, sir," said the boy, squirming, "I did nothing. It was Scudamore that kicked me in the stomach underneath the desk."

The statement was true. Scudamore had demanded from his neighbor, quite illegitimately, the explanation of an obscure passage, and, not being attended to, had taken this much too emphatic means of enforcing attention. Having called the class up, Arnold said to the doubly wronged boy, who was still subbing the place: "It is who am most to blame for having dealt you an undeserved blow. Take that cane and give it back to me as hard as you got it." "No, sir," the lad answered; "I can't do that." The whole great schoolroom was now listening, masters and all. Arnold insisted. "Jones, you must obey me, and if you disobey, I am sorry to say I shall make you write out that page of Cicero three times, staying in to do it."

Whether it was desperation at this dreadful alternative or the sparkling eyes of his class fellows, evidently longing to have the good luck themselves of "licking" a master, that suddenly inspired Jones, I know not. What I do know is that he reached forth his hand, took the cane and dealt me no sharp stroke, but the severest and most telling out over my shoulders. I had no idea that the ridiculous instrument could sting as it did, like a scorpion. "Rubbing the place" in my own turn, I managed to thank Jones for his obliging compliance, and then said to him: "Break that detestable weapon across your knee and throw it out of the window. Never again will we have anything to do with such methods here."

Sir Edwin Arnold adds that corporal punishment is, in his view, a cowardly and clumsy expedient, and that "he who cannot teach without the stick had better get some other business." —London Globe.

Married or Single.
One of the ways of telling whether a man is a married man or not is to examine his pockets. In the pockets of a bachelor you will find:

Half a dozen letters from girls.

A tailor's bill.

Three or four old checks for theater tickets.

Bills for supper.

Theatrical locking photographs.

A lot of invitations to dances, dinners and receptions.

A tiny glove scented with violet.

But the married man's pocket will contain:

An old bill.

A couple of impudent letters which were given him to post a week past.

A sample of impudent shade which he must match.

A newspaper clipping telling of a sure cure for croup.

A shopping list ranging from a box of blacking to three yards of lace.

Bills.—London Tit-Bits.

A Massachusetts Decision.

The decision of the Massachusetts supreme court that women cannot be made notaries public by the legislature, because they are not expressly named as eligible by the constitution, is illogical and unjust. But it is so long so as a majority of the judges maintain their present opinion. Fortunately judges, like other men, are mortal and will give place sooner or later to more enlightened successors.—Woman's Journal.

A Friendly Comment.

Gladys—I cannot understand why all men seem to take so much to Cora.

Phyllis—it's simply a case of Mary's little lamb.

Gladys—How do you mean?

Phyllis—Well, when the children asked, "What makes the lamb love Mary?" they were told, "Why, Mary loves the lamb, you know." That's the principle on which the men like Cora.—New York Journal.

No Danger.

Jenkins—I am going to have my bank bills disinfected before I handle them.

Mrs. Jenkins—For what reason?

Jenkins—to remove the danger of contagion to my family.

Mrs. Jenkins—I never heard of your family being exposed.—Detroit Free Press.

Post.

Violence.

Four out of five who suffer nervous mental worry, attacks of "the blues," are but paying the penalty of early excesses. Victims, regaining your manhood, regain your vigor. Don't despair. Send for book with explanation and proofs. Mailed (sealed free).

NEVADA STATE JOURNAL

TUESDAY, JULY 14, 1890.

L. P. FISHER, NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING AGENT, 21 Merchants' Exchange, San Francisco, our advertising agent. This paper is kept on file in his office.

FOR PRESIDENT,
WILLIAM J. BRYAN,
OF NEBRASKA.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
ARTHUR SEWALL
OF MAINE.

POPULISTS AND BRYAN.

Two National Conventions are to be held in St. Louis one week from tomorrow. One is the Populist; the other the National Silver party. Will these conventions nominate or endorse Bryan for President? The answer to that question will simplify the Presidential campaign. If they make Bryan their nominee his election will be only a question of majority; if they do not the contest will be doubtful.

The National Silver Convention will endorse Bryan there is no room for doubt. He represents the principles for which the Silver men have been contending. He is endorsed by Senator Teller, whose opinion will have great weight with the delegates, and he is in line with Senators Stewart, Jones, Cannon, Dubois, Mantle and Pettigrew and with Newlands, Hartman, Allen and other Representatives, who are championing the Silver cause. Many of the Populist leaders also favor Bryan and if the Convention does not make him its nominee, a larger bolt than has yet occurred may reasonably be expected.

The gold men will undoubtedly use money where they think it will do the most good at St. Louis, but it does not seem possible that a party, whose cardinal principle is free coinage, can be delivered to the gold oligarchy by its leaders, and be used to defeat the purpose for which it was organized.

TELLER FOR BRYAN.

Senator Teller of Colorado, who has endeared himself to the masses of the American people, places principle above partisanship, and says he endorses and will support to the best of ability William J. Bryan for President of the United States. Teller sinks the partisan in the patriot. He left his party because of its declaration against the free coinage of silver, and, as was to be expected from a man of his comprehensiveness and determination, he gives his adherence to William J. Bryan, who is as staunch and ardent a supporter of the people's cause as there is in the United States.

Bryan is the logical candidate of everybody, regardless of past party affiliations, who desires to see the country released from the deadly grasp of the gold trust. It is no time to quibble about party names. The issue which the American people are called upon to decide at the ballot box involves not only their prosperity, but their liberty. Deprise the farmer of his home and he becomes a serf; deprive the workingman of the opportunity to earn a livelihood and he becomes an anarchist or a tramp. The battle is between the classes and the masses, and Teller is with the people.

MONEY THE ISSUE.

A few weeks ago every gold paper throughout the country was endeavoring to make it appear that tariff was the paramount issue. Now they are disproving their allegations and declare that the money question is the issue of the campaign. Several administration papers have come out squarely against Bryan and assert that they will not support him because of the platform on which he was nominated. As an offset, however, free coinage papers in the west are advocating Bryan's election, so that what he loses in one section he gains in the other. There are more silver men in the East than there are gold men in the West and South and the farmers of New York, nearly all of whom are for silver, outnumber the coffee seekers in Illinois and Indiana, who comprise the principal part of the gold brigade in those States. For every gold Democrat who deserts Bryan in East there are two silver Republicans in the West and South who will rally to his standard.

THE NOMINEE FOR VICE PRESIDENT.

Arthur Sewall, the Chicago nominee for Vice President, is the largest ship owner and ship builder in America. He is about sixty years of age. His son Harold, who was consul to Samoa, left the Democrat party recently because of a disagreement with the Administration and was a delegate to the Republican National Convention.

Mr. Sewall is a bank president and a millionaire. He is not hide-bound or intolerant. He is a staunch advocate of free coinage and voted for Senator Daniel for Temporary Chairman against Hill. He is well known in San Francisco and his nephew is a member of the shipping firm of W. H. Diamond & Co. He is popular in Maine and it is predicted that the State will go for silver this year as the farmers and lumbermen are enthusiastic for free coinage.

The receivers of the Northern Pacific railroad, took judgment in the United States Court by default yesterday the Seattle, Lake Shore and Eastern railroad, for $1,258,600. The claim is based on services rendered, money advanced and losses incurred in running the Lake Shore road.

BRITISH BIMETALLISTS.

They Hold Their Annual Meeting in London.

London, July 13.—The Bimetallic League of Great Britain held its annual meeting to-day. The annual report declares that the cause of international bimetallism has made substantial progress during the year with both Great Britain and abroad. It mentions the resolutions of the Chamber of Deputies of France, the Chamber of Representatives of Belgium and the Prussian Diet, declaring for bimetallism and continuing:

"In the United States all parties and classes would welcome international bimetallism. A large section of the people there, however, are so strongly convinced of the urgent necessity for remonetizing silver that they are indisposed to wait an international agreement. No party of any importance is in favor of gold monometalism."

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES.

The Southern Pacific depot at Cot-tonwood, Shasta county, California, was destroyed by fire yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bryan are at Salem, Illinois, and will leave for their home at Lincoln, Nebraska, Wednesday night.

A convention is to be held in New Hampshire to determine what course the silver men will take on the silver question.

The People's Savings Bank at Lansing, Michigan, has closed its doors.

Failure to realize on assets is given as the cause.

The National Democratic Committee has selected Senator Jones of Arkansas for Chairman. Many of the members favor removal of headquarters from New York to Chicago.

Henry Waterson has telegraphed the Courier-Journal Company from Switzerland that another ticket is the only one of the gold Democrats.

Mrs. Louise M. Jones, a Los Angeles lady of considerable wealth, is trying to annul a note for $10,000 which she gave her maid servant in 1895.

The annual convention of the Christian Endeavor Society at Washington City ended yesterday. Subjects of importance were discussed. On behalf of the National Trustees a beautiful banner was presented to Chairman Shand of the Entertainment Committee.

The sculling match on the Thames, England, between James Standberry, an Australian, and Wig Harding, the English champion, was won by the Australian. A mile was made in four minutes and twenty seconds, with Standberry four lengths in the lead. At the finish Standberry was eight lengths ahead; time 21 minutes and 10 seconds.

JOHN JARGSTORF,

Lincoln's Log.
With the earlier anecdotes of Lincoln's size and strength are linked always other anecdotes of his story telling in the intervals between working hours, when his long, gaunt figure would be stretched at ease, and he would pour stories, anecdotes and bits of mimicry till the crowd around him was helpless with laughter.

In one town, where he stopped four weeks to build a flatboat, there was preserved and pointed out for many years a peeled log, called Abe's log, wherein he and his listeners used to sit lounging and whittling in the summer evenings. So irresistibly funny were the yarns that Abe told there that, said the narrator, who used to be one of the boys, "whenever he'd end up in his unexpected way the boys on the log would whoop and roll off."

The result of this appreciative friction, constantly repeated, was that Abe's log, so long as it was in existence, displayed a polish like a mirror from one end to the other.—Youth's Companion.

Tiger and Lion.

"One time, in order to test the courage of a Bengal tiger and a lion," said a well known showman, "we placed a Chinese cracker in the respective cages and fired the fuses. As soon as the fuses began to burn they attracted the attention of both animals, but in a widely different manner."

"The lion drew into a corner and watched the proceedings with a distrustful and uneasy eye. The tiger, on the contrary, advanced to the burning fuse with a firm step and unfaltering gaze."

"On reaching the cracker he began to roll it over the floor with his paw, and when it exploded beneath his nose he did not flinch, but continued his examination until perfectly satisfied. The lion betrayed great fear when he heard the report of the explosion and for quite a time could not be coaxed out of his den."—London Tit-Bits.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constituted condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the remedy with millions of families, and everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reliable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

STATE CAPITAL NOTES.

Sudden Death of C. C. Pendergast, Cashier of the Mint—State Board of Pardon in Session—Carson's New Postmaster.

Carson, July 13, 1896
The very sudden and unexpected death of C. C. Pendergast, Cashier of the Carson Mint was the sensation of to-day. He was found dead in his bed at his room in the Arlington Hotel about 11 a. m. and had apparently been dead several hours.

John M. Giles, the colored porter of the hotel, testified at the Coroner's inquest this afternoon that he was informed by a chambermaid that the door of Mr. Pendergast's room remained locked and he might be sick. He went to see about it, and not obtaining any response to rapping, he got up on a chair and looked over the transom and saw Pendergast lying dead on the bed. He at once reported to the office and directly returned with W. H. Doane, the hotel clerk, and E. B. Rul. They obtained admission by way of the front porch and windows, and found deceased perfectly cold and rigid in death.

He lay straightened out with his head inclined to one side, hands across his hips, lying in his night shirt in an easy and natural position, covered to the neck by sheet, and all appearances indicated that he had passed away quietly without struggle or pain. His regular day suit was hung up in the wardrobe and his underclothes lay upon the floor. His gold watch was placed under his pillow as usual, and he had evidently gone into his eternal sleep soon after retiring for the night, which was between 9 and 10 o'clock, as no noise was heard from him after that time by the neighboring roomers. He ate a hearty dinner about 5 o'clock, and during the evening he conversed and joked in a pleasant mood with his friends generally.

About two weeks ago he experienced an attack of faintness and exhaustion resembling apoplexy, which Dr. Lee pronounced to be valvular disease of the heart, and was confined to his room for two or three days, since which time he has continued in a depressed condition of health, showing more so the last two days, death being the result of the stated condition of the heart, according to Dr. Lee.

Deceased was about 65 years of age and a native of Maryland, born near Baltimore. He was single and leaves relatives in California and the East.

For many years he was a business man and stock broker on the Comstock, and has been cashier of the Carson Mint during the present administration. Many good friends grieve to learn of his sudden demise.

The State Board of Pardons commenced session to-day for the consideration of several applications of pardon from the State Prison. That of James Gilmore, sent for nine years from Washoe county in 1892 for manslaughter, was denied.

Patrick Crowley, Storey county, 1890, murderer in the second degree, continued until to-morrow. He was convicted of killing William Nichols with an axe on a lower level of the Hale & Norcross mine and throwing the body down a shaft. It is now alleged and shown that a letter or letters to a member or members of the jury were received anonymously, threatening vengeance in case of a verdict of murder as charged being given.

Gafford, Washoe county, burglary, continued until the January term.

Coulon, O'Keefe and Martin of the famous C. & C. gang, Virginia, assault and highway robbery, also continued until the January term.

S. H. Day, the newly appointed Carson Postmaster, received his commission from Washington yesterday and will take official charge on the 16th, next Thursday.

State Medical Association.

The State Medical Association held its annual meeting in this city yesterday. Several of the members arrived by private conveyance from Virginia yesterday morning and by the local train from Carson. On the invitation of Dr. Bergstein of the Hospital for Mental Diseases the members visited the hospital and there listened to a clinical lecture on insanity by the Superintendent. Most of the day was spent at the hospital.

In the evening a practical demonstration of the X ray was given the members by Professor N. E. Wilson of the State University and W. G. Caffrey, electrical engineer.

At a late hour the members and guests were banqueted at the Arcade and an hour or two was passed in pleasant conversation and good stories. There were ten physicians present at the session.

FLORAL LIFE.

A Chapter on the Sentiment of Motherhood in the Plant.

In his investigations of the psychology of the unconscious, Dr. David Alynn Gorton of Brooklyn notes the sentiment of motherhood in the plant, though it is less strongly marked than in animals. Many flowering species, he observes, take special care of the seed in budding time, in protecting it against rain and frost, by wrapping their petals around it or inclosing it by the lips of their corollas. This precaution is taken by many plants at night to protect the young and tender bud from the dew.

The impatients noli-me-tangere hides even its flowers under its leaves by night. Many plants inclose their young in horny cases, and these again in thorny buds to preserve them against rapacious birds and insects, and to assure their coming to maturity. Most ingenious of all are some of the aquatic plants to secure the same end. Take, for example, the alga species, the water lily, the crowfoot, the water nut, etc., which send their flowers to the surface of the water for fertilization, and when it is accomplished draw them to the bottom again.

This student of psychology in the plant world discovers equal significance in certain phenomena among many different species in respect to light, noticing with other illustrations the behavior of the sunflower, "which will almost break its neck in its eagerness for the sunshine," and the common grapevine, which will invariably twine toward the light.

Wonderful again is the unfailing certainty with which plants select their food. They choose only that which is good for them, even when environed by poisonous substances in solution. Their instinct of the whereabouts of water is unerring. "In one of my excursions to the country one dry season," says Dr. Gorton, "I observed a certain elm in search for water, had sent numberless rootlets several rods away to a ditch where there was running water. When I saw that it had not sent rootlets in any other direction for this purpose, I could not but wonder how that tree, consisting to the outward sight of cellulose, sap and chlorophyll only, without a rudiment of nerve cell or nerve substance to hang an instinct or to affix a reflex impulse upon, knew the existence and direction of a stream of water."—Brooklyn Eagle.

A Great Wheel Salesman.

Recently several drummers happened to meet on a train en route to Indianapolis, and they began, as usual, to tell of their business. It happened that there were some bicycle salesmen among them.

"I struck a great streak of luck last week," said one of them. "I sold three orders, and it amounted to 900 wheels."

Being the first man to boast of his business, he was easily outdone by the next, and the third saw the others and went some better. He sold one firm 1,000 wheels, and two other orders amounted to 800.

"You people are not in it," said a small man, who had not taken part in the conversation. "I sold one firm 9,000 wheels, and they are all to be given away for advertising purposes."

"What's that? Sold 9,000 wheels to be given away! What wheel do you sell?" chimed in the other three in chorus.

"The 9,000 wheels I sold were contained in 1,000 Waterbury watches, which clothing store is going to give away," said the small man, handing each of the three men nine wheels for their own use and accepting their offer to get off at the next stop and "have something."—Indianapolis Journal.

One Object of Life Insurance.

The subject of the conversation had taken several routes, and finally the topic of insurance was reached by the guests, the hostess and host at the dinner table.

"Papa has his life insured," spoke up the little girl, the pet of the household.

"Is that so?" asked one of the visitors, showing interest in the evidence of precocity. Everybody present looked at the child, and the father and mother gazed fondly and proudly.

"Yes'm; for $15,000."

"What has he done that for?"

"So mamma can buy a new husband when he's dead."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Honesty.

Let honesty be as the breath of thy soul and never forget to have a penny when all thy expenses are enumerated and paid; then shall thou reach the point of happiness, and independence shall be thy shield and buckler, thy helmet and crown; then shall thy soul walk upright, nor stoop to the sullen watch because he hath riches, nor pocket an abuse because the hand which offers it wears a ring set with diamonds.—Franklin.

Friendship.

Mamma—Now you cannot say, John, that baby does not love you. What do you think she has pleaded with me to ask you for?

Papa—What dear?

Mamma—Well, she wants a lock of your hair.

Baby—Yes, papa, do let me have it. My winking horse has lost its tail.—Loudon Fan.

Misunderstood.

"Would you like to take a chance?" asked the timid, rosy-cheeked maiden of the stranger at the church fair.

"Would I?" exclaimed the stranger radiantly. "Well, I should say I would, but—his voice fell to a whisper and the eager light in his eyes died to a far-away, sad expression—"I am already married."—Washington Times.

Boys and Girls.

An accident which shows the danger of not teaching boys how to use firearms is reported in The American Field. Seventeen-year-old James Groat of Omaha, with three comrades, was hunting ducks on the river. Not finding the birds plentiful, boy fashion, they thought they would play about in the willow blind. They laid their guns down and began to sky-lark. All of a sudden a flock of ducks was seen coming, and there was a rush to get the guns.

If young Groat had been brought up right, he would not have left his gun cocked and loaded, he would not have grasped it by the muzzle and pulled it toward himself, the trigger would not have caught in a twig, and the lad would not have been killed. The top of his head was blown to pieces by the whole charge of shot entering just above the nose.

When a boy wants a gun and is in a place about which game is to be found, and there are hunters to hunt it, the boy is going to have it by hook or crook. So the best way to do when a lad shows the symptoms is to put him into the hands of a good hunter and have him taught what to do and what not to do, especially what not to do, and if a good gun, built by a trustworthy manufacturer, is given to the would-be hunter, there is no danger whatever. If this was done in every instance with boys, there would be no accidental killings. It is the self-confident, self-taught man who kills others and himself.

Me and Others.

An artist should consider facts about the masters of his profession calmly and thoughtfully. He may reach valuable conclusions about himself. A certain musical composer of much talent and popularity—we will call him Smithkins—had a happy appreciation of his own work, as his friends all know.

So highly does he estimate Smithkins' compositions that some of his friends were much startled the other day when he said gravely, "Did you ever notice that the names of all the great composers begin with M?"

"M!" ejaculated his astonished audience.

"Yes, M," said the composer. "Mozart, Mendelssohn, Meyerbeer, Moszkowski—and Me!"—Pearson's Weekly.

Husbands to Burn.

The English actors who come over here are intensely English when they first arrive, but they soon show their appreciation of American colloquialisms by appropriating them. A gentleman of this city relates that some time ago in the New York club he met Fred Wright, Jr., the comedian. Some one was telling about a woman who had just married her third husband.

"By the way," the gentleman asked, "where is her first husband buried?"

"He was cremated," was the answer.

"And the second?"

"Also cremated."

"By Jove," observed Little Mr. Wright, "that woman has husbands to burn!"—St. Louis Republic.

Ancient Angels.

"It is believed," said the classical brazier, "that there was a game extant in the days of Rome that much resembled our baseball."

"The language shows that," asserted the cheerful idiot. "The word 'base' you know, means a tale end."—It.
